IT Solutions for the Modern Business

Our Vision AEVO is a customer service focused IT solutions provider that enables businesses to benefit from modern technologies.

Our leadership has spent more than 15 years designing, implementing, and supporting successful technology solutions for businesses of all sizes.

We have delivered IT solutions for a wide range of industries including Law Firms, Architectural Design, Union, Marketing, Engineering, Manufacturing, Accounting, IT Departments, MSPs, and more!

Who We Are Our vision blends modern infrastructure design with organizational process intelligence so that not only is your IT stable and reliable, but also enhances your workflow and business culture.

Whether you are a startup ready for IT, an established business looking for a change, or a larger entity seeking new solutions, we believe a business of any size and in any industry can benefit from our approach.

Core IT Management Service

The IT industry is always changing. A business now has access to technology and applications that are more cost effective, accessible anywhere, and enable new ways to work. In parallel with great advantages, this can also create new challenges.

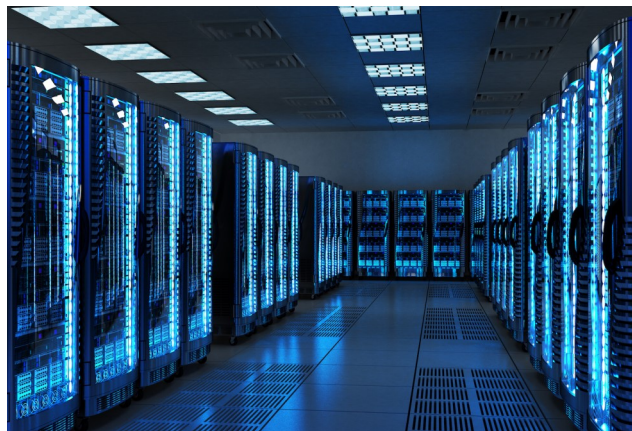

We are now at a point where there are too many “great” solutions. The real challenge is finding the “right” solution.

A great IT provider can’t just support your computers, it needs to support your business. That means understanding your workflow, your staff, and your goals.

At Aevo, of course we want to provide great IT support, but that’s not enough. We want to be part of the culture in your business that leads to successfully implementing the right technologies into your workflow.

Through modern design, we can help implement infrastructure solutions that are reliable, secure, and enable your business to adopt modern technologies. We provide the necessary resources and strategies to maintain your environment so your focus can be on your business instead of downtime.

Aevo’s IT Infrastructure Management solutions are available to business of all sizes. Whether it is in the cloud, in the office, ancient, or modern, we support you and your team to help set you up for success.

Cyber Security Awareness Program

One of the greatest security threats to any business is a compromised identity. A compromised username and password can give a malicious person access to a company's files, email, financial information, and more.

In addition to email security and filtering, to minimize these risks, your IT provider can help you implement security technologies such as Multi-factor Authentication (MFA) and lock down permissions to your data and services. These will help greatly, but there's another important piece of the puzzle that is often overlooked, your people.

For example, an overwhelming majority of security breaches are caused by "phishing". Phishing is a malicious attempt to trick individuals into revealing personal information. When an attempt is successful, the attacker can use the information gathered to potentially communicate with your customers or extract information from your company.

Aevo's Security Awareness Program exists to help educate your staff on these new threats to help equip them with the skills needed to reduce risks even further. This involves customizing our program around your business and industry, simulated and controlled "phishing" tests, and online training for your staff.

Our program is designed to be easy to implement and can be a catalyst for increasing security awareness and general email security knowledge to protect the individual and your business.

Email Signature Management

Consistent email signatures is a challenge for every business. It can be difficult to get a consistent result amongst your staff as well as across all the different devices you use throughout your business.

An email signature is more than just information about the person sending an email. It represents your company's brand and a marketing opportunity in every message sent.

Whether you want to just have a consistent signature across your teams or looking to implement your marketing strategies in every email, Aevo's Email Signature Management service gives you the technology and resources needed to deliver a centralized signature program that will bring a cohesive look to your communications that your team and customers will appreciate!

Business Modernization

The best IT infrastructure design can't help an unhappy workforce using old software and processes. A great business regularly reviews its processes and workflows to help keep it efficient and ready to adapt to the changes in its industry.

However, there is the challenge of a forever evolving technology industry as well as the changes new generations of workers can bring to your business culture that can make adapting difficult. On top of that, the need to work remotely and to manage a more mobile workforce adds even more challenges.

How you communicate, collaborate, manage, and improve your staff's performance, efficiency, and general happiness is now directly impacted by the technology solutions and processes implemented in your business.

Modern IT design can enable your business to take advantage of new technologies, but there's still the step of embracing and integrating these technologies, many that you may already be paying for, into your culture and workflow.

Aevo can help you lead your business through its digital transformation. Whether there's a need for company wide collaboration evolution or just a need for "a better way to do something", we can help your leadership and teams blend new technologies into your company's workflow and culture.
